Summary

Robert Miller, President of Future Electronics, congratulated the company's Prague branch, which is celebrating its 15th anniversary this year.

Message

Future Electronics, a global leading distributor of electronic components, recently celebrated the 15th anniversary of the opening of the company's branch in Prague, Czech Republic.

Future Electronics was founded in Montreal in 1968 by company President Robert Miller. It expanded into the United States in 1972, opening its first American office in Boston.

The Prague branch first opened in 2005, to serve customers in both Czech Republic and Slovakia. The office is located in a strategic area of Prague from which team members can easily reach the main roads to visit customers, while still remaining close to the city center.

"I've been working for Future Electronics in Czech Republic and Slovakia from the very beginning, and it's great to see how the company as well as the team has evolved in both countries, building up relationships with our customers and supplier partners, and becoming demand creation oriented," said Country Manager Pavel Rasejev. "We remain focused on delighting our customers and suppliers, and being the partner who helps them meet their challenges."

Robert Miller, President of Future Electronics, congratulated the Prague team on their 15-year milestone, and thanked everyone for their contributions to the success of the branch.
